AN ADDRESS
IN FAVOUR OF
THE SCHOOL FOR THE BLIND, IN LIVERPOOL,
Instituted in the Year
MDCCXCI.

With the year
Seasons return, but not to them returns
Day, or the sweet approach of ev'n or morn,
Or sight of vernal bloom, or summer's rose,
Or flocks, or herds, or human face divine ;
But cloud instead, and ever-during dark
Surround them, from the cheerful ways of men
Cut off; and, for the book of knowledge fair,
Presented with an universal blank
Of nature's works, to them expung'd and ras'd,
And wisdom at one entrance quite shut out.

Plan of the Basement Story.

Plan of the Principal Story.

ADDRESS.

THERE is perhaps no class of human beings, whose situation appears at first view more deplorable and irremediable than that of the BLIND POOR. Cut off from every means of occupation and amusement, their faculties become torpid and inactive: those with whom they are compelled to associate, are unable to supply their minds with sources either of information or comfort; and during that portion of their time which they are condemned to pass in solitude, they are left to dwell upon the reflection, that through the whole of their existence they must remain in their present helpless state—a burden to themselves and to their relations. It remained for the present age to discover a remedy for this evil. The hand of benevolence, guided by the suggestions of ingenuity, has at length succeeded in rendering these unfortunate objects no longer burdensome to society; has enabled them to become happy and useful; and has, in short, opened the eyes of the blind.

About twenty-six years have now elapsed since an attempt was made to afford relief to those persons who were labouring under the complicated misfortunes of poverty and blindness, by forming an institution where they might be cheered by conversation, and where, by being engaged in different occupations, their minds might be relieved from the fatigue of inactivity, at the same time that their labour might, in some degree, contribute to their support. The experiment of a few years proved that the object was not unattainable, and even the first efforts that were made were so far successful, as to meet with the decided approbation of the public. Increased experience has, however, enabled the managers of the institution to improve the nature of the establishment under their care; and as they extended their views, they have continued during each successive year to render it less of an ASYLUM, and more approaching to a SCHOOL, where the Blind should be instructed in some useful art or trade, by which they might be enabled to procure for themselves a comfortable livelihood.

In so novel an undertaking, it might naturally be expected, that a considerable period of time must elapse before the plan could arrive at maturity. Many unsuccessful experiments would necessarily be made, and both time and expence would not improbably be lost in the attempt to accomplish objects, which were after all found to be unattainable. Some manufactures that were conceived to be peculiarly adapted to the management of persons deprived of sight, were upon trial found to prove less advantageous than was expected, and were at length abandoned. It has also happened in a few cases, that persons who have been admitted into the school have, in consequence of bodily or mental incapacity, depending probably upon the same cause which produced their blindness, been unable to receive any useful instruction, and were under the necessity of returning to their friends. Notwithstanding, however, the occurrence of some circumstances of this nature, it may be confidently asserted, that the present state of the institution is highly gratifying to the friends of humanity, and that it has already produced more real service to those persons who have been the objects of its care than could reasonably have been predicted. At the opening of the present school, in the spring of 1800, the number of pupils was increased to seventy; in 1809 to one hundred; and the number at present in the school is ninety-eight: they are all of them usefully employed, and they exhibit a picture of cheerfulness and comfort which can perhaps scarcely be paralleled by an equal number of individuals, of any description whatever, collected under the same roof. Few persons have for the first time been eye-witnesses of the scene which it presents, without shedding tears of sympathy and delight : nor has their interest in the establishment been diminished by a more intimate acquaintance with it. To behold a number of our fellow creatures, whose previous situation was so truly deplorable, become at the same time happy and useful, produces a sensation of heartfelt satisfaction which words are unable to express.

A circumstance, which at the same time that it is highly gratifying to the feelings of the committee, proves decidedly the favourable opinion which the public at large entertain of the benefits derived from the institution is, that five similar schools have been established on the plan of the one at Liverpool, viz. in the cities of London, Dublin, Edinburgh, Bristol, and Norwich. The committee have embraced every opportunity of conveying information to the managers of those institutions ; and they take this method of expressing their readiness to co-operate with them in any way, by which the welfare of those charities may be promoted.

The principal occupations of the pupils at present are—spinning, hamper and basket making, the plaiting of sash line, the weaving of worsted rugs for hearths, carriages, and doors, of linen, and of floor cloth and sacking, the making of sacks and list shoes, the manufacturing of twine, pack thread, log lines, clothes lines, and fish lines, of stair carpeting, and of foot bears, points and gaskets from old ropes, and the learning of music. In this last department, the attention of the committee is principally directed to qualifying the pupils for the office of organist : forty-one of them have been rendered fully competent to such an appointment. The pupils are also instructed in a new method, upon the principle of the Madras system established by Dr. Bell, of teaching music to others, and in tuning and stringing musical instruments ; a circumstance which, in country places particularly, may be an important advantage to the neighbourhood where they are introduced. By these means they are enabled to procure for themselves a comfortable livelihood, and have met with very considerable encouragement. Besides the means which are adopted to instruct the pupils in these several employments, a strict attention is paid to their moral and religious conduct. The health of the pupils is also made an object of especial care, and medical practitioners are appointed to superintend and regulate all circumstances relating to it. The medical committee particularly direct their attention to the state of the eyes, and consider it their province to ascertain whether any means can be employed for the recovery of sight: it may be necessary to remark, that no operation of this kind is ever performed without the express consent of the parties and of their friends.

The first object of the governors in erecting buildings was to provide the pupils with a school, where they might spend a certain number of hours daily, and receive instruction in their several trades; and in the year 1800, a commodious building for this purpose was erected, principally from the contributions of the inhabitants of Liverpool. The pupils were lodged in different houses near the school; but although every care was taken to provide them with suitable accommodations, yet it was found, on many accounts, desirable to have them more under the immediate inspection of the governors. Every year afforded fresh proofs of the importance of accomplishing this object, and the committee were induced from the encouragement which they received from the public, to commence an extensive range of additional buildings, connected with the present school, in which those pupils, whose friends do not reside in Liverpool, might be lodged. The buildings are now completed, but there remains a heavy debt to be discharged.

With respect to the inhabitants of Liverpool, who are eye-witnesses of the truly gratifying scene which this institution presents, the committee feel confident, that the above simple statement will be sufficient to ensure their cordial co-operation. As, however, the benefits of the charity are not in the least degree restricted to this town, the committee think it incumbent upon them to exhibit a statement of the present situation of the charity before the public, in expectation that they will gladly embrace this opportunity of contributing their share to the support of an institution, which extends its benefits in an equal degree over all parts of the country. The number of blind persons who have been received into the charity, since its first institution in 1791, is four hundred and sixty-five, of which ninety-one only have belonged to Liverpool; of ninety-eight pupils now in the school, nineteen only belong to the parish of Liverpool; and of the remaining seventy-nine, twenty-three only to the county of Lancaster, and fifty-six to other parts of the United Kingdom. Of these there are a few pupils who are entirely supported by their friends, and do not receive any wages; being placed there solely for the purpose of availing themselves of the advantages of the instruction to be received in the institution.

When the work-rooms in the new buildings were completed, the number of pupils in the school was increased to one hundred, and the committee had the gratification of seeing the list of candidates considerably reduced. It is scarcely necessary to remark, that this increased number of pupils has considerably augmented the annual expense of the establishment. Such, however, is the confidence which the committee feel in the liberality of the public, and so fully convinced are they of the favourable opinion which is entertained respecting the school, that they not only flatter themselves with the expectation of receiving the sum of money requisite for liquidating the debt, but they further rely upon such an augmentation of the subscriptions, as may annually meet the increased expenses of the establishment.

In making this appeal to the benevolence of the public, it only remains for the committee to add the following statements, together with extracts from letters received from pupils who have left the school; all affording the strongest and most gratifying proof of the utility of the institution, in enabling them to maintain themselves comfortably, and to spend cheerfully, as well as usefully and honourably, those hours which would otherwise have been lost to the world and to themselves.

HENRY ARNOLD was admitted into the school August 1, 1791, and taught to make baskets, to weave foot bears and lobby cloth: he also made considerable proficiency in music; in consequence of which, early in the year 1797 he was appointed organist to the parish church of Halsall, to and from which place (a distance of fifteen miles) he regularly walked, without any one to guide him, until the 1st of December, 1798, when he quitted the school with a very good character, and fixed himself at Ormskirk. Here, at the first, he made baskets, and gave instructions in music to a few pupils; but subsequently he engaged very extensively in the manufacture of corn sacks, and hammocks for seamen; in which business he gave employment to three journeymen and to his father, who continued to labour whilst he was equal to it, and was afterwards supported by him until his decease, which took place about a year since. His mother is now incapacitated by extreme old age from doing any thing, and is maintained by him. He also materially contributed to educate, support, and fix out in life, four or five of his younger brothers and sisters. At one period the sale of his sacks and hammocks exceeded in amount one thousand pounds per annum. He may now be said to be affluent. His present residence is in Church-street, Ormskirk.

ROBERT WHITESIDES left the school February 3, 1798, and was appointed organist of Garstang church.

HENRY LEE, musical pupil, made considerable progress in music; was enabled to tune, quill, and repair instruments, and to teach music, by which he maintained himself respectably.

HENRY ROBINSON, organist of Sedgefield, county of Durham, left May 10, 1799.

JOHN RUSSELL retired on the 5th April, 1800; was enabled from the instructions he had received to support himself. For his general good conduct, and cheerful assistance in teaching the younger pupils during the time he was in the school, the committee ordered him tools, materials, and cash, to establish him in business, to the amount of ten guineas.

JOSEPH STOTT left the school April 12, 1802: carries on an extensive business at Burnley in a most creditable manner: employs three persons making foot bears, and three basket makers; deals largely in brushes, household furniture, turnery, and glass, which he always unpacks and repacks himself; has a wife and four children maintained most comfortably and respectably. He travels in the way of business alone on horseback (having no guide but when in a strange town) three times a year to the following places: Blackburn, Preston, Bolton, Manchester, Oldham, Halifax, Sheffield, Doncaster, Pontefract, York, Leeds, Bradford, Otley, Skipton, Keighley, Colne, Clitheroe, Heptonstall, Todmorden, and Bacup; and always visits those of his fellow pupils who reside in his route, in order to enquire after their welfare.

JOHN HANDFORD left the school April 2, 1803; is now the organist of St. Nicholas's church, in Liverpool, and the music master in the School for the Blind. Under his instructions the pupils have made greater proficiency than ever they had done before: by an invention of his own, he can give them a clear conception of the gamut, the notes, and rests, and of the manner in which music is written in score.

JOHN REDFEARN left 17th June, 1804; since appointed organist of the parish church of Rochdale.

HENRY GATLEY left 27th January, 1805; appointed organist of St. Matthew's church, Liverpool.

JAMES SMITH left December 8, 1805; organist of a church in the neighbourhood of Manchester.

WILLIAM NEWTON left July 5, 1806; organist of Farnworth church.

Extract of a Letter from William Reckhouse, Patrington, near Hull, to the Rev. William Blundell, Chaplain.

I have commenced business for myself, and meet with very good encouragement, and hope I shall do very well; but I am in great want of some articles which I cannot get in this part of the country, and unless I can get them from you, my customers will be disappointed; but I hope the gentlemen of the committee will grant me the favour of their being sent, as they told me when I left the school they would assist me in any thing I might stand in need of.

I am, &c.

WILLIAM RECKHOUSE.

Rev. Sir,

As I have been writing the above for my son, I cannot be silent since I have this opportunity of returning you thanks for your attention paid to my son in instructing him in his duty, and also for his being well instructed in his business, which I

To Pudsey Dawson, Esq.

Respected Sir,

Shiffnall, 25th Aug. 1812.

I have long wished to address you, and to thank you for the kindness I have always experienced from you, but delayed doing so until I had it in my power to inform you of the success or disappointment of the object of my coming hither. The former has at length been my happy lot, as the good people of this parish were unanimous in electing me their organist this morning. I have suffered great anxiety whilst the matter was undetermined, but should have felt much more, but for the kind attention and promises of support held out to me on all sides. The kindness of some I shall never be able to repay, and especially of Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher, who have indeed been parents to me. They have procured me comfortable and respectable lodgings, to which I shall soon remove from their house. In short, I have every prospect of happiness, and I am sure my poor mother will cry for joy when she hears of my success.

And now, Sir, when I reflect upon what I am, and contrast it with what I might have been, how can I sufficiently testify the gratitude I feel and owe to that institution, which alone has enabled me to obtain my present situation. I shall always regard my admission into it as the greatest blessing in the hand of God. My heart, I trust, will prompt its latest prayer for its success; and that my future conduct in life will be an example of the good effects which the humanity and care of the asylum always labour to produce. I hope I shall never forget the good advice you have kindly given.

I remain, honoured Sir,

Your most truly obliged

FRANCES HOLLINS.

P. S. My salary has, I believe, been mentioned to you as being thirty guineas per annum.

RICHARD FRODSHAM, appointed organist of Whalley church, left April 14, 1813.

JOHN GRINDROD, appointed organist of the parish church of Leyland, left December 17, 1813.

Rev. Sir,

Whiston, August 4, 1814.

This day Mr. John Broadhead has been elected organist of Whiston, and though it cannot be called a situation desirable in respect to salary, being only £20 per annum, I have no doubt, if he maintains a respectable character, it will ultimately prove a desirable one, by its local situation in a genteel and musical neighbourhood.

I remain, Rev. Sir,

Your obedient humble servant,

RICHARD LACY, Rector of Whiston.

To the Rev. W. Blundell, Chaplain.

Hond. Sir,

I hope you will pardon me whilst I trouble you to read these following lines; and, if you will excuse me, I will inform you of my success since I came to this place. For the first ten months, I only got three pupils, and then having heard the organist at Barnsley had given up teaching, though it was fourteen miles distant, yet I was resolved to apply for some of his business; and I have there got five pupils, all of whom I have taken by the year. I think if I was to pay all that I shall be able to get, I should not discharge that debt of kindness I owe to the trustees of the institution. Please to give my warmest thanks to Mr. Dawson, and the rest of the gentlemen for their kindness towards me.

I remain your most obedient servant,

JOHN BROADHEAD.

Whiston, October 15, 1815.

GEORGE FLINT, organist at parish church, Workson, left December 1, 1814,

JOSEPH COBHAM, organist at Huyton church, left December 16, 1814.

MARY ANN GREATBATCH, qualified for an organist.

MARY ANN BEAUMONT, do. do.

BENJAMIN TAYLOR, do. do.

JAMES MULLOY, organist at Brewood, Staffordshire, left October 12, 1815.

Manchester, October 15, 1815.

To Pudsey Dawson, Esq.

Sir,

Permit me to assure you that it is with the greatest deference and respect, and with the most lively emotions of gratitude I address you. I am one of those beings (though not totally dark) whom pity and benevolence have supported in the School for the Blind in Liverpool. I well remember how generously you promised to countenance and protect me when I left the Asylum, if my character and conduct should continue irreproachable. I now beg leave, Sir, to solicit your interest in my behalf for the purpose of having a harpsichord lent me from the Asylum, that I may perfect myself in playing, and repairing such instruments during my leisure hours. I feel a strong inclination for such an exercise, having no doubt but it will be to my advantage. Perhaps, Sir, you may wish to know something of my personal circumstances, and of those with whom I reside. For a very considerable time after I came here, I should have been materially embarrassed but for the very great kindness of my uncle and aunt, with whom I live. They fitted me up the cellar under their house, in a very convenient manner, for me to work in, and also purchased materials for me; so that I feel myself moderately circumstanced at present.

For the character of my uncle, whose name is James Birchwood, I can refer you to many respectable persons in this town, particularly to the Rev. Jeremiah Smith, D. D. head master of the free grammar school, and minister of St. Peter's church, who will kindly answer any enquiry. Should you deign to notice my request, please, Sir, to direct for me at James Birchwood's, No. 3, Liverpool road, Manchester.

Permit me to subscribe myself,

With the greatest respect, Sir,

Your most obliged humble servant,

THOMAS GRUNDY.

Gentlemen,

Ulverstone, April 28, 1816.

We take the liberty to address you on the subject of the bearer, Hyla Holden, who by the uniform propriety of his conduct, has insured our esteem and good wishes, and we may safely assert, the approbation of the public. He has been elected organist here; and we are willing to flatter ourselves, that by his professional abilities and salary he will be enabled to live comfortably and respectably.

We feel the highest gratification in bearing testimony to the character of so worthy an object of benevolence, and trust what has been done for him here will be entirely to your satisfaction.

We remain, Gentlemen,

Your most obedient servants,

J. SUNDERLAND, Minister.

ROBERT BOLTON, }

MARTHA NEWSON, organist at Osset, near Wakefield, left June 24, 1816.

Rev. Sir,

Newport, June 26, 1816.

My son has got his loom and warp ready, and has a great many orders. He sends his duty to you, and to let you know he has done very well indeed at baskets, but if he can get fixed in weaving, he will be fully employed in our own neighbourhood. He likewise sends his duty to Mr. Dawson, and bids me say, "whilst he lives he is in duty bound to pray to God to send you, Sir, and him, all the good you stand in need of, both in time and eternity." I also am under the same obligation to my dying day.

I am, Reverend Sir,

Your humble servant,

To the Rev. W. Blundell.

ELIZABETH DUDDING.

To Joseph Greenwood, (a pupil) from his Mother.

My dear Son,

I received with grateful pleasure your truly welcome letter, which conveyed to me the pleasing intelligence of your intention of visiting Skipton. You know what my poor home is, but I will do all I can to make it comfortable to you, for you are ever in my thoughts, and I most sincerely wish it was in my power to do more for you. I look forward with delight to that happy period when it will please the Almighty to bless you with a comfortable situation, and myself as your housekeeper: your poor solitary mother will then once more enjoy comfort, and her long widowed heart will be cheered with the company and conversation of her darling son; for the piety and virtue you have instilled into your young mind during your stay at that blessed place the Blind Asylum, (for a blessed place it has been to you, my son, as well as to many others) I say that piety and virtue will give a charm to your conversation, and the evening of your mother's days will glide on in peace: God grant this pleasing prospect may be realized. I am truly sorry to hear of the death of your worthy governor Mr. Dawson; he will be a severe loss to the Asylum, indeed to the town of Liverpool in general; for he was a truly good man, and his memory will be long dear to thousands who have benefitted by his goodness: but he has a reward for all his labours of love on earth, and is now enjoying everlasting honours in another and a better world. Now adieu my dear son, may the Almighty grant us a happy meeting; and after the close of our labours in this world, a joyful eternity in a better.

Your ever affectionate mother,

Skipton, June 27, 1816.

MARY GREENWOOD.

ALICE STOTT, qualified to instruct others in music, left July 13, 1816.

RICHARD CHEW, organist of Trinity church, Liverpool, left August 2, 1816.

JOSEPH GREENWOOD succeeded late F. Hollins, Shiffnal church, Shropshire; left August 29, 1816.

To the Chaplain and Trustees of the Blind Asylum, Liverpool.

Gentlemen,

I consider it a duty incumbent upon me, when I call to mind the many favours and kindnesses which I have experienced at your hands, to inform you of the progress I have made as organist and rope maker at Accrington. My salary is £12 per annum, and an annual collection which was made in June, and amounted to upwards of £11, making the total of organist £23. My friend, Mr. Wilkinson of Haslingden, was very kind in fitting me up as a rope maker; and though I have not as yet made any thing very considerable, yet I hope I shall improve my trade during the present year. The people I have hitherto found very attentive and very kind to me, and I doubt not they will remain so as long as I remain following the excellent precepts I received at your excellent institution.

I hope the above account may be acceptable to your honours' approbation; and I trust that your excellent institution may prove a blessing to all who are deprived of that inestimable blessing of having eyes to see; this is the constant prayer of

Gentlemen, your very grateful servant,

Accrington, Sept. 5, 1816.

THOMAS BARNES.

It gives me great pleasure to bear witness to the good conduct of Thomas Barnes, and his great attention as organist at Accrington during the time he has been with us.

I am, Gentlemen, your very obedient servant,

JOHN HOPWOOD, Minister of Accrington.

December, 1817.

N. B.—The above statement of the Amount of Goods Manufactured and Sold at the School, cannot fail to be highly interesting to the friends of the institution. It is however necessary to remark, that the quantity of goods manufactured in any one year, is by no means a test of its prosperity at that particular period. The institution professes not to be a Manufactory, but a School. The best pupils are constantly retiring, while others are admitted in their place, whose labour is for some time necessarily unproductive; and no advantage is derived from the labour of the musical pupils.

EXTRACTS

FROM THE RULES

OF THE

School for the Blind.

THE pupils when they are first sent to the School are to be clothed, and are to be afterwards provided with necessaries at the expense of their friends. The committee will undertake to procure them in those cases where the friends of the pupils find it more convenient.

From the first of April to the first of October, the pupils are required to be at work from a quarter past six in the morning until six in the evening; from eight to nine being allowed for breakfast, and from twelve to one for dinner.

From the first of October to the first of April, they are required to work from eight in the morning, (one hour being allowed for dinner) and leave at six o'clock.

The female pupils leave off work at five in the evening, during the whole of the year.

The pupils assemble every morning and evening to join in public prayer; the names of those who are absent are noted in a book kept for that purpose.

The pupils regularly attend both parts of the Sunday at some place of public worship. Those who belong to the establishment accompany the Superintendent and Matron to church.

The pupils who do not belong to the establishment are required to bring certificates of their regular attendance at their respective places of worship, from the ministers who officiate at them.

The pupils assemble in the chapel at the School every Sunday evening at seven o'clock, in order to join in public prayer, and to be examined in the catechism.

Strangers who visit the School are requested to observe, that neither the Superintendent, Matron, nor any of the pupils are permitted, on pain of Expulsion, to receive Money, or any other Gratuity. The Superintendent is authorized to receive Benefactions and Annual Subscriptions; and Boxes are provided for the reception of occasional Donations.

Instances of irregularity which take place in the conduct of the pupils, are represented to the visitors or committee, who adopt whatever measures they may think necessary to prevent their recurrence. In those few cases where practices have been detected of a nature which it was apprehended might prove injurious to the morals of the rest, the committee have thought it proper to return the parties offending to their friends.

LIVERPOOL SCHOOL FOR THE BLIND.

At a Meeting of the Committee of the Subscribers to the SCHOOL for the BLIND, in Liverpool, holden Friday, the 10th January, 1817,

IT WAS ORDERED,

*“ THAT persons who wish to recommend candidates for admission,
“ are requested to observe, that no application can be attended to,
“ unless accompanied with answers to the following queries, “ addressed, post paid, to Mr. John Lucy, at the School for the “ Blind, Liverpool, and signed respectively by the several parties “ required, residing within the parish to which the candidate may “ belong.”*

From the numerous applications lately received for the admission of infants; and from many persons having erroneously supposed, that the Blind were maintained by the charity; it is deemed necessary again to repeat that it is merely a school for teaching them some useful art or trade, by which they may be enabled to earn their own livelihood; and that children of less than twelve years of age cannot be admitted.

It is required that the pupils should be sent decently clothed to the school, and kept so at the expense of their friends or of the parishes to which they belong, during their continuance in the school.

From the trouble and inconvenience experienced by the committee, in obtaining the reimbursements of the weekly allowance of three shillings advanced by them to several of the Blind, at the request of their friends, or of the parishes to which they belong; IT IS ORDERED, that previous to the admission of any candidate in future, the friends or parishes from which such allowance is to be received shall pay the first half year in advance, and engage some respectable inhabitant of Liverpool to become responsible to the committee for the payment, half-yearly, of such allowance always in advance, and also for the payment half-yearly of the necessaries with which they may have been supplied; and if the payments are not made within three months after the time when they ought to be made, notice will be given to the person who has been appointed to pay the same; and if they are not paid within three months from the time of the notice having been given, the pupil will be sent home.

* Who is the person appointed in Liverpool to pay the parish or weekly allowance, and for necessaries which the pupil may be supplied with ?
